

__Manual Testing__

Core Website Functionality

User Stories

- As a user, I can read the page so that I can get more information about Ladybike and the team.
- As a user, I can click on the navbar so that I land on the page I am interested in.
- As a user, I can read more about the classes so that I can book the ones I like the most.
- As a user, I can check the start time of the class so that I can organize my schedule accordingly.

The homepage instantly provides the user with all information needed to be able to navigate through the website and gain an understanding of 'who' Ladybike is.

The navbar is self-explanatory and clearly shows the user which page they are currently on.

On the classes page, the user can look into the information regarding each class and get linked to the booking system to book the class they want.

HOME PAGE AND OUR CLASSES

On the classes page, the user can look into the information regarding each class and get linked to the booking system to book the class. The google maps on the classes page was not responsive to smaller screen sizes and had to be removed. It is reported to the bugs section. A lot of different approaches have been tried, but nothing managed to meet its solution.

SMALLER SCREEN

Admin Functionality

User Stories

- As an admin, I can manage the articles so that I can share them on my webpage.
- As an admin, I can create drafts so that I can work on the articles later on when I have the time.
- As an admin, I can manage the booking on the backend so that I can approve the bookings.

Using a specified login, the site owner can access the admin backend.

User Authentication

User Stories

- As a user, I can fill in my information so that I can get access to the bookings and like the articles.

The navbar displays different nav links depending on the status of the user. If they aren't logged in already, the options are Register or Login.

Also, since the user needs to be authenticated to make bookings, a different CTA is displayed on the header on the front page, and an alert message is displayed on the classes saying that the user has to log in before making any booking.

Welcome to Ladybike

We're passionate female cycling professionals who want to make cycling training a fun experience for other females!

Book a session today, and we'll ensure you have a great sweaty experience!

Our Classes!

Spinning

Available: Everyday

Start Time: 07:00 AM

Ends: 08:00 AM

Calories burnt: 400-500

In spin class, you pedal along on a stationary bike as the instructor guides you through a visualization of an outdoor workout. The pace and speed will vary throughout the workout, sometimes requiring break-neck speed, and other times pedaling happens from a slow, standing position.

Ladybike

Available: Everyday

Start Time: 18:00 PM

Ends: 19:00 PM

Calories burnt: 600-700

Is an intense combo class that will push your body to the limit. It combines intervals of cardio with strength conditioning, moving quickly between the bike and equipment on the ground. Expect to work with dumbbells, bands, gliders, and your own body-weight.

On the sign-in page, the user is prompted to register if they do not have an account:

If the user did not add all the credentials needed, a pop-up message appears telling them they must fill in the required information.

Once a user logs in, they are presented with a success message:

The screenshot shows a navigation bar at the top with 'Lady|Bike' logo, 'Home', 'Articles', and 'Classes' links. On the right side of the bar are 'Manage Bookings' and 'Logout' buttons. Below the bar, a green success message box contains the text 'Successfully signed in as annita.' To the right of the message box is a large, dark, blurry image of a person on a stationary bike.

If they are logged in, then the nav bar on the right-hand side changes, and pages that require authentication show instead; these are Manage Bookings & Logout.

plenty of time to warm up for at least 20 minutes stress-free. For criterium or cyclocross races, scout the course in advance so you're not surprised by any of the turns or obstacles.

Ride tall. Before the start, remind yourself that this is about finishing and doing the best you can do; it's not about anyone else. If you find yourself alone and struggling, know that even the best riders get dropped. No matter how you finish, you'll be able to call yourself a racer. And we'd wager you'll sign up for another race shortly afterward.

JavaScript Tests

A small number of JS functions that handle some animation & event listeners to add classes and attributes to elements created dynamically.

A function when a window resizes in conjunction with a debounce function prevents the function from triggering if being called continuously. It starts after it has stopped being called for 150 milliseconds. As explained in the article here.

A Google Map was implemented at the end of the ‘Our Classes’ page, and a JS function to hide the map to small screen size devices was called but did not work. Thus, it was removed.

`datePicker` - A JQuery datepicker was used for this project, so this function applies the datepicker to any fields with the id - "#id_requested_date".

`checkDate` - This function validates dates being submitted as part of the reservation form, if a date in the past is selected, the user is alerted, and the form does not submit:

`formError` - This function animates the form by adding an Animate class to the form if there is an error. You can see before submitting the only class on the ul is `full-form`:
